Level I, Japanese

Targeted Elements [Presentational Mode]

- MLLIP1B Express like/dislike, emotions, and agreement/disagreement
- MLLP1B Give basic information about self and others suggested topics
- MLLP1C Demonstrate Novice-Mid proficiency in oral and written presentations

Description of Task

In your math class you have a new student, Yoko Yamaguchi, who recently moved here from Japan with her family. Yoko cannot speak English well and relies on you to help her since you are the only student in this class who is studying Japanese.

Mr. and Mrs. Yamaguchi would like to invite your entire class to Yoko’s birthday party next week. They are going to hire professional cooks to prepare the food and need to know what types of foods the students like.

Phone Mrs. Yamaguchi with this information, and remember to speak in Japanese since her English is non-existent. Be sure to be polite by greeting her appropriately and introducing yourself before speaking to her about the food.

Teacher Notes

This can be recorded if you have access to a lab system or a tape recorder. If you choose to interact with the students, this can change to an Interpersonal Task with you playing the role of Mrs. Yamaguchi. If you change this to an Interpersonal Task, you must also change your scoring rubric to a Novice-mid Interpersonal Rubric.

Scoring Guide
