Term	Definition	Example
Consonant Sound	A sound represented by the letters of the alphabet excluding the vowels (a, e, i, o, u) that is made by controlling air flow in order to make a specific sound.	Making the “b” sound with the lips or making the “m” sound through the nose are examples.
Contested Usage	How a word or part of speech can or should be used can be disagreed upon. When that is the situation, students must be able to justify why they used the word they did, or at the very least realize the way in which they used the word could be incorrect. Students should be able to look through the necessary reference materials and determine a word’s correct usage.	One contested usage of coordinating conjunctions is that they should never be used to start a sentence. Yet, for rhetorical emphasis and sometimes the flow of a sentence the writer is better served using a hard period instead of a comma.
Contraction	The joining of two words with an apostrophe being used to signify the dropping of a letter or letters.	Can not becomes can’t. Does not becomes doesn’t.
Convention	The universally agreed upon rules, methods, or processes.	The subject and verb must agree in number.

Term	Definition	Example
Semicolon	A semicolon “;” can be used to join two independent clauses and also to separate items in a series where commas are already being used to define the items.	I love to go to baseball games; batting practice is my favorite part of the night. I have been to Atlanta, Georgia; Houston, Texas; and New York, New York.
Sentence Patterns	Sentence patterns can be determined in a variety of ways. They may be classified according to verb by verbs of being, linking verb, and action verb. They may be classified by the order of the subject, verb, direct object, indirect object or objective complement in the sentence. They may be classified by how independent clauses are joined and the placement of dependent clauses.	I am a runner. I am running in the gym. I run in the gym every day. I collapsed. I caught the ball. I tossed Megan the ball. I am sick. I am tired. I am sick, and I am tired. I am sick; I am tired.
Short Vowel Sound	The five vowels a, e, i, o, and u make either short or long sounds. The short vowel sound is the same as a soft vowel sound.	Bat, let, bit, lot, up
Simple Sentence	A group of words consisting of one subject and one verb that express a complete thought.	I went to the store.
Simple Verb Tense	The three verb tenses of present, past, and future.	I love you today. I loved you yesterday. I will love you in the future.
Singular Noun	A noun that is preceded by the articles “a” or “an” that is only one in number.	A dog, a girl, an apple, an event

Term	Definition	Example
Spell Phonetically	Being able to “sound out” words and spell them by comparing what is heard with what the student knows about the sounds of consonants and vowels.	The student could hear the word “bat” and identify the “b” sound at the beginning of the word, the short vowel “a”, and the “t” sound at the end.
Spelling Conventions	The accepted and universally used spelling rules and methods.
Spelling Pattern	Certain sounds can be made in many different ways in the English language. Spelling patterns are used when there is not a hard and fast rule to explain why a word is spelled a certain way.	Great, bait, fate, weight
Standard English Grammar	The accepted way in which words are properly arranged. One rule is that a comma is used to set off introductory material from the independent clause.	Because I am hungry, I bought a sandwich.
Standard English Usage	The accepted way in which words are implemented to convey meaning.
Style	The distinctive manner in which a writer crafts his work, including diction, syntax, and figurative language	The boy lived. The joy of finding young Joshua permeated every cell in the mother’s distraught body, bringing with it a release of tension so great that she collapsed to her knees, sobbing his name and wringing her hands in thanksgiving.
Style Manual	A book of grammar and formatting rules that helps the student research answers to questions about English Language grammar and usage conventions.	MLA Handbook

Term	Definition	Example
Subject Verb Agreement	Subjects and Verbs must agree in number. If the subject is singular, the verb must also be in its singular form. If the subject is plural, the verb must be in its plural form.	Julie hits the ball. Her teammates cheer her on.
Subjective Pronoun	Pronouns that can be the subject in a sentence.	I, you, he, she, it, we, you, they. I will call the ambulance. You can call our parents. They will not be upset. She is going to be fine when she sees a doctor.
Subjunctive Mood	The subjunctive mood may express conditions or wishes that are contradictory to facts, demands, or requests. The present form of the subjunctive is the same as the past form of the indicative, unless the verb -be is used. The subjunctive uses -were for all subjects when using the verb -be.	If I were going to the movie, I could not watch the parts that are scary.
Subordinating Conjunction	Any one of a set of words that can connect a dependent clause to an independent clause. Most of the time the dependent or subordinate clause is dependent because of the subordinating conjunction.	Because, since, if, though...  If you come to visit me in Hartwell, we will go to the lake to fish. We will go to the lake to fish if you come to visit me.
Suffixes	A group of letters added to the end of the root of a word	Encouragement, friendless

Term	Definition	Example
Superlative Adjective	An adjective that tells the difference between three or more objects, people, ideas, or places. It can be formed by adding –est to a single syllable word or by using most or least.	She is the skinniest girl I have ever seen.
Superlative Adverb	Tells to what degree in relation to three or more objects an action is being performed.	She is the fastest runner on her team.
Syllable Patterns	Words have different syllable patterns. Three common patterns are CVC (consonant, vowel, consonant), CVVC (consonant, vowel, vowel, consonant) and CVCe (consonant, vowel, consonant, letter e). The vowels have somewhat predictable sounds within each pattern.	CVC (short vowel sound) cat, top, sit CVVC (long sound of first vowel) meat, leap, CVCe (long vowel sound, silent e) hike, tone, bane
Syntax	The rules governing the formal construction of sentences. Syntax is the way in which words are grammatically placed together to form sentences.	I want to graduate from high school. Graduating from high school is a personal goal of mine. Graduation will be a happy experience for me because I will have reached an important personal goal.
Temporal words	Temporal words are transition words that alert readers to shifts in ideas. Temporal words usually indicate the sequence/order (elementary).  Temporal transition words can also indicate addition, exception, contrast, comparison, location, cause and effect, emphasis summary and conclusion (middle/high).	Rosie asked what the surprise was. First , the teacher was quiet. Next , she stopped to tell us that the second grade class would be getting a treat today – ice cream. Wow!

Term	Definition	Example
Tone	Tone is the way an author expresses his or her opinion about himself or herself, the content or subject, and the audience.	The author’s tone was condescending; I felt as though he viewed himself as being far superior to the mere students who studied his work.
Underlining	A title of a major work is underlined. Usually the larger work is underlined and what is contained in that work is placed in quotation marks.	Novels, albums, books, television shows, movies
Uppercase Letter	A capital letter is the larger form of a letter. Used with proper nouns, first letter at the beginning of sentence, the pronoun “I”, and in other special instances.	A,B,C,D,E,F
Usage as a Matter of Convention	The English language is always evolving and word meanings change over time. Slang and clichés change the meaning of a word and the accepted usage of that word changes.	Geek has come to mean someone who is technologically sound maybe even at the expense of his or her social status; whereas, originally it was the name for a performer who bit the live head off of a bird.
Vague Pronoun	A pronoun with an antecedent that is not clear.	When the glass ball hit the glass door, it broke. Did the ball or the door break?
Verb	A word that expresses an action or a state of being.	She threw the ball. He is happy about his grade.
Verb Mood	Verbs are generally indicative, subjunctive, or imperative in mood. They should be written consistently when possible.	Be sure to hang up the clothes in the laundry room, and will you move the clothes from the dryer? If you were to help me, I would appreciate the effort, and fold the clothes as well. (Inconsistent) Please help me by working in the laundry room. You can take the clothes from the dryer and either fold them or put them on hangers.
Verb Phrase	A verb that is made up of more than one word and still functions as the simple predicate of the sentence.	Ben is running in the marathon.

Term	Definition	Example
Verb Voice	Verbs are active or passive in voice. Generally, but not always, one would want to keep the voice consistent. Active voice is also generally preferred.	I hugged my mother, picked up my keys, and opened the door. My mother was hugged by me, and then my keys were picked up as I walked through the door that had been opened.
Verbals	Verb forms that do not function as verbs in the sentence are verbals. Verbals function in a sentence as noun adjectives and adverbs. Infinitives, participles, and gerunds are verbals.	Hoping for the best is a way of life. (gerund) To hope is to live. (infinitive) The woman hoping to hear from her son is Mrs. Green. (participle)
Word Families	Sets of words that are closely related to each other, generally in form or in meaning, can create a word family.	Interested, interesting, uninteresting, disinterested
Wordiness	Adding words to a writing sample or speech with the intent of sounding more sophisticated than the writer or speaker really is.	Wordy: The officer of the law delayed my excursion, for he did not appreciate at all the manner in which I was driving. He had the audacity to arrogantly issue to me a citation for excessive speeding. Not as wordy: I am late because the police officer gave me a speeding ticket.
Words for effect	Words that more powerfully, purely, or connotatively contribute to the author's intended tone and/or purpose	The putrid smell of dead fish A lavender monogram on cuffed shirt The wheezing of the aged ladies who had laughed together all afternoon
