Writing, Speaking and Listening, and Language Guidance
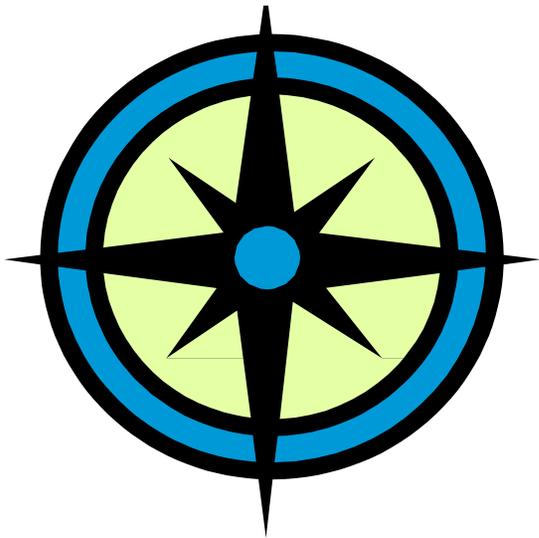

GSE TEACHER GUIDANCE:

Skills, concepts, strategies, tasks, and suggested key terms

Ninth Grade GSE
Writing (W)
ELAGSE9-10W1: Write arguments to support claims in an analysis of substantive topics or texts, using valid reasoning and relevant and sufficient evidence. a.   Introduce precise claim(s), distinguish the claim(s) from alternate or opposing claims, and create an organization that establishes clear relationships among claim(s), counterclaims, reasons, and evidence. b.   Develop claim(s) and counterclaims fairly, supplying evidence for each while pointing out the strengths and limitations of both in a manner that anticipates the audience's knowledge level and concerns. c.   Use words, phrases, and clauses to link the major sections of the text, create cohesion, and clarify the relationships between claim(s) and reasons, between reasons and evidence, and between claim(s) and counterclaims. d.   Establish and maintain an appropriate style and objective tone. e.   Provide a concluding statement or section that follows from and supports the argument presented.

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Distinguish supporting evidence from repetition or extraneous detail
- Distinguish valid reasoning from logical fallacy
- Understand what comprises sufficient evidence based on the nature of argument or claim
- Address audience bias and counterclaims
- Write with appropriate organizational structure for argument or claim (comparison/contrast, logical order, etc.)
- Understand persuasive rhetorical strategies
- Use transitions effectively
- Exhibit knowledge of formal manuscript styles including MLA and APA and create citations accordingly
- Use effective strategies for conclusion, avoiding simple restatement or introduction of new ideas

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Provide engaging, stimulating, and relevant text-based topics for argumentation
- Vary writing assignments to include both short and sustained projects, researched argumentation, group projects, and multi-modal writing
- Require formal manuscript styles on some assignments, including formal works cited pages and appropriately formatted citations
- Require specific textual evidence for all claims and supporting evidence, including formal and informal writing and discussion
- Point out persuasive strategies in everyday discourse (for instance, when students argue against weekend homework)
- Include the study of and writing of literary criticism as a type of argumentative writing

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Students will conduct a short research project on discoveries that changed the world (penicillin, theory of relativity, DNA, silicon chip, etc.). Brief group digital inquiry will yield a bank of approved subjects for focus. Students may be asked to work independently, or in pairs or small groups, to produce a two-page essay supporting their claim that their chosen discovery was indeed of primary importance, even in relation to the other important discoveries in the discussion. The resulting paper will combine significant research with argument writing that will advance the writer's claim and provide extensive support from appropriate texts. The writing process will include annotation of texts through the production of note cards providing evidence of supporting facts gathered from resources. Students will be allowed to reference their note cards in team debates to be held upon completion of the essays.

Suggested Key Terms:

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Writing (W)
	ELAGSE9-10W2: Write informative/explanatory texts to examine and convey complex ideas, concepts, and information clearly and accurately through the effective selection, organization, and analysis of content. a. Introduce a topic; organize complex ideas, concepts, and information to make important connections and distinctions; include formatting (e.g., headings), graphics (e.g., figures, tables), and multimedia when useful to aiding comprehension. b. Develop the topic with well-chosen, relevant, and sufficient facts, extended definitions, concrete details, quotations, or other information and examples appropriate to the audience's knowledge of the topic. c. Use appropriate and varied transitions to link the major sections of the text, create cohesion, and clarify the relationships among complex ideas and concepts. d. Use precise language and domain-specific vocabulary to manage the complexity of the topic. e. Establish and maintain an appropriate style and objective tone. f. Provide a concluding statement or section that follows from and supports the information or explanation presented (e.g., articulating implications or the significance of the topic).

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Construct a summary of a text without editorial bias
- Understand the interplay and progression of multiple ideas within a single theme or topic
- Distinguish important facts from extraneous details
- Format and structure expository essays for maximum clarity and impact, including effective use of transition words and phrases
- Use academic and technical vocabulary effectively; use sophisticated syntax
- Understand the rules of major manuscript styles such as MLA and APA, including appropriate use of correctly formatted citations

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Explore a variety of professional essays with students that illustrate the difference between reporting facts and expressing an opinion, paying special attention to types of text whose purpose may be unclear (biased news reporting, for instance)
- Construct newspapers and journalistic articles based on both literary and informational text
- Provide opportunities for both short and extended informative essay writing
- Use real-world examples (for example, political debate) for whole-class discussions on the distinctions between fact and opinion, and the importance of critical analysis of information presented in various formats as fact, but without supporting evidence

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):
To sharpen students' skills at identifying and maintaining an objective and unbiased tone in informative and explanatory writing, it can be instructive to require expository writing in response to heavily biased text (some places to find heavily biased text include political debates, op-ed pieces in the local newspaper, agenda-driven books and magazines, and advertisements). Provide students with a persuasive text and require them to write an informative/explanatory essay explaining the author's purpose, rhetorical strategies, and intended audience of the persuasive piece, using quotations and evidence from the text to support their unbiased analysis.

Suggested Key Terms:

Informative/Informational	Multimodal/Multimedia	Cohesion	Exposition/Expository

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Writing (W)
	ELAGSE9-10W3: Write narratives to develop real or imagined experiences or events using effective technique, well-chosen details, and well-structured event sequences. a. Engage and orient the reader by setting out a problem, situation, or observation, establishing one or multiple point(s) of view, and introducing a narrator and/or characters; create a smooth progression of experiences or events. b. Use narrative techniques, such as dialogue, pacing, description, reflection, and multiple plot lines, to develop experiences, events, and/or characters. c. Use a variety of techniques to sequence events so that they build on one another to create a coherent whole. d. Use precise words and phrases, telling details, and sensory language to convey a vivid picture of the experiences, events, setting, and/or characters. e. Provide a conclusion that follows from and reflects on what is experienced, observed, or resolved over the course of the narrative.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Know the elements of plot structure
- Understand the elements of characterization
- Use figurative language, imagery, sensory detail, and other literary devices to make stories realistic and engaging
- Employ appropriate organizational structures to ensure cohesion in narratives
- Use diction and syntax of appropriate sophistication for grade level, audience, and purpose

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Always tie narrative writing opportunities to a text under consideration
- Because formal analysis and research papers will not require narrative writing, supplement narrative writing opportunities with daily writing
- Allow students to explore narrative styles by emulating the styles of favored authors for specific assignments
- Remember to require the same rigor and sophistication in narrative writing that is required in other grade-level appropriate texts

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Have students extend the experience of a character in a literary text under consideration past the point where the novel stops a narrative line. For example, students may write an additional short chapter for Lord of the Flies, explaining what happens to Ralph in the days or weeks following the end of the novel. This narrative should use specific evidence from the original text to determine what words or actions the characters would use to be true to the characterization developed by the author. The student should emulate the diction, syntax, and other stylistic elements of the original author to illustrate his or her understanding of those elements.

Suggested Key Terms:

Exposition	Denouement	Character(ization)	Pacing	Rising action	Flashback	Chapter
Parallel	Plot	Climax	Foreshadowing	Epilogue	Dialogue	Conflict
Imagery	Falling action	In media res	Prologue	Figurative language	Resolution	Sensory detail

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Writing (W)
	ELAGSE9-10W4: Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience. (Grade-specific expectations for writing types are defined in standards 1–3 above.)

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Understand the elements of style in all genres of writing, including diction, syntax, tone, etc. (see sample writing rubrics for guidance)
- Understand the appropriate use of transitional words and phrases
- Use structure and organization for maximum clarity and effectiveness across all genres
- Understand and employ correct grammar and conventions for the English language, varying diction/style as appropriate for audience and purpose
- Maintain focus on audience and purpose
- Accurately read and interpret writing prompt
- Use appropriate tone by determining and respecting audience

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Provide frequent writing opportunities, both formal and routine, brief and extended
- Provide extensive and specific feedback on as much student writing as possible; avoid providing a grade without specific feedback via rubric, commentary, or both
- Require students to maintain a record of their writing throughout the year in the form of a portfolio or compendium
- Create opportunities throughout the year for retrospective review of writing to facilitate a recognition of progress and habits

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):
Students review their own writing portfolios. Students will write a self-reflection on personal growth and specific changes they notice in developing and organizing ideas. Teachers may provide a graphic organizer steering students toward items for their attention. Students may choose a specific document from writing folder for other students to read. Reviewers will use provided sticky notes to write compliments/suggestions to fellow students. Once students read comments on sticky notes, they may summarize the suggestions as an addition to their self-reflection.

Suggested Key Terms:

Diction	Denotation	Introduction	Opinion	Syntax	Connotation
Fluency	Evidence	Style	Organization	Imagery	Detail
Voice	Structure	Sensory detail	Extraneous	Topic	Fact
Conventions	Purpose	Audience	Figurative language

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Writing (W)
	ELAGSE9-10W5: Develop and strengthen writing as needed by planning, revising, editing, rewriting, or trying a new approach, focusing on addressing what is most significant for a specific purpose and audience. (Editing for conventions should demonstrate command of Language standards 1–3 up to and including grades 9–10.)

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Cultivate the habit of drafting and revising major (and not so major) written work
- Understand and employ effective strategies for editing and revising (revising by element, reading aloud, reviewing with peers, etc.)
- Always review work for genre adherence (audience and purpose) and sharpen focus as appropriate
- Acquire and review increasingly sophisticated knowledge of grammar and conventions and avoid errors
- Engage in periodic self-reflection about writing growth

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Use a consistent rubric and scoring system throughout the year and across grade levels when possible
- Guide students in how to effectively use rubrics to critique and enhance their writing
- Establish a clear understanding of difficult concepts, such as voice and style, so that students know and understand specifically what is included in and required of them in these categories
- Remember to include writing elements in all reading assignments and a reading component in all writing assignments, incorporating language and speaking/listening routinely

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Put students into fairly large groups (4-6) and have them incorporate all of the requirements for effective team brainstorming, planning, and goal setting set forth in the Speaking and Listening standards to work effectively together to produce a peer review worksheet. Explain that this worksheet should represent the very best ideas of the entire group concerning what specific elements in a text should be reviewed by an editor and what kinds of feedback are most useful. When the groups have produced their peer review worksheets, project them for whole-class viewing. Conduct a comparison of the worksheets, keeping the best elements of each and adding any necessary elements to create a comprehensive and effective worksheet/template for class use. Items to note may include the inefficiency of "yes/no" questions such as "Did the student adequately support his claim?" Make sure all questions/check points require a text-based response by the reviewer (so instead, the question might read, "note three pieces of evidence from the text cited by the student in support of his claim").

Suggested Key Terms:

Peer	Rubric	Topic	Edit	Fluency	Thesis	Review	Organization	Theme
Style	Diction	Revise	Voice	Syntax	Publish

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Writing (W)
	ELAGSE9-10W6: Use technology, including the Internet, to produce, publish, and update individual or shared writing products, taking advantage of technology's capacity to link to other information and to display information flexibly and dynamically.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Proactively maintain knowledge of and use the latest digital trends for gathering and sharing information
- Suggest new technologies for the classroom and encourage peers and instructors to explore new technologies
- Acquire and maintain keyboarding skills adequate to produce text in the quantities and within the time limits required
- Publish your work routinely, both to your classmates and digitally to the general public, including posting your films, blogs, podcasts, and Prezis and creating Wikis, websites, and other bases for others to access

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Incorporate digital media into the classroom at every opportunity, including maintaining a class website, blog, podcasts, Wikis, or any other medium possible for the sharing of information and ideas both within the class cohort and beyond it
- Investigate opportunities to partner with other classrooms in remote locations, including internationally (many platforms exist to facilitate these connections)
- Partner with the media specialists in your school whenever possible
- Proactively learn new technologies; encourage purchasing and training in new technologies whenever possible
- Learn from the digital natives in the class about emerging technologies
- Share student work beyond the borders of the classroom whenever possible and appropriate

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):
As a class, produce, direct, and publish a weekly podcast. Use guidelines for Speaking and Listening to establish collegial rules of conduct, set goals, and divide tasks fairly. The podcast may include weekly installments of a text, literary criticism, class news, world news, arts and entertainment, or any other instructionally-based material the students wish to produce. A routine podcast that occurs weekly or monthly can provide an infrastructure for a great deal of instruction, providing a framework for broadcasting, journalism, peer editing, group collaboration, reading, commentary, and analysis.

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Writing (W)
	ELAGSE9-10W7: Conduct short as well as more sustained research projects to answer a question (including a self-generated question) or solve a problem; narrow or broaden the inquiry when appropriate; synthesize multiple sources on the subject, demonstrating understanding of the subject under investigation.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Understand the concept of plagiarism and avoid it; cite all source material accurately
- Distinguish credible sources, whether digital or textual, from sources that are not credible or reliable
- Be familiar with common manuscript styles, including MLA and APA, and format papers and citations appropriately
- Routinely synthesize cited material, quotations, inferences, and other support into research, writing smoothly and coherently
- Practice planning appropriately, adhering to goals and deadlines, and using research and writing time allotted efficiently

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Allow opportunities for both formal and informal research projects, including group and individual projects, short and sustained, formal and informal citation styles
- Encourage the incorporation of multimodal sources in research, including interviews, observations, texts, digital resources, films, etc., and discuss how citation styles vary for these media
- Choose topics of inquiry that are challenging, but also incorporate inquiries that are relevant and engaging to promote student interest; allow students to choose their own areas of focus when appropriate
- Share research findings with interested parties outside of the classroom when possible

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

In the context of a study of Thomas Friedman's Hot, Flat, and Crowded, have students construct a research inquiry into applications of Friedman's "Geo-Greenism" in their own communities. Using principles from the text for the greening of local enterprises, students will research and compile a brochure or website that will serve as a guide to local businesses on ways to recycle, locally available programs, alternative cleaning supplies, and any other resources available locally to assist business owners in conserving resources and reducing pollution. The information should be promoted effectively within the community so that stakeholders are aware of it. An extension of this activity could include a follow-up study of practices that were effectively implemented as a result of the student project.

Suggested Key Terms:

Compile	Synthesis	Qualitative	Evaluate	Inquiry	Quantitative	Annotate	Credibility

Ninth Grade GSE
Writing (W)
ELAGSE9-10W8: Gather relevant information from multiple authoritative print and digital sources, using advanced searches effectively; assess the usefulness of each source in answering the research question; integrate information into the text selectively to maintain the flow of ideas, avoiding plagiarism and following a standard format for citation.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Practice maintaining appropriate focus in research, narrowing or broadening inquiry as appropriate, avoiding digression and ineffective sources/strategies
- Understand the concept of plagiarism and avoid it; citing all source material accurately
- Distinguish between relevant facts and extraneous facts or details
- Distinguish credible sources, whether digital or textual, from sources that are not credible or reliable
- Become familiar with common manuscript styles, including MLA and APA, and format papers and citations appropriately

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Encourage the incorporation of multimodal sources in research, including interviews, observations, texts, digital resources, films, and discuss how citation styles vary for these media
- Examine indicators of credibility in resources, especially digital resources; teach the concept of peer review in scientific articles
- Teach major manuscript styles and require composition of citations without dependence on electronic citation generators

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Sample Task for Integration:
Provide a list of several websites/digital resources for students to evaluate. Plant several sources on the list that are known to be unreliable (these may have varying levels of obviousness/subtlety in their unreliability). Have students provide a citation and annotation for each website/resources, summarizing its contents by citing specific quotes/facts/evidence from the text of the site itself. Students should assign a grade for reliability between 1 and 10, supporting their assessment with evidence.

Suggested Key Terms:

Digital	Credibility	Plagiarism	Multimedia	Evaluation	Relevant	Citation
Summarize	Extraneous	Annotation	Paraphrase	Integrate	Reliability	Quote
Manuscript style/format

Ninth Grade GSE
Writing (W)
ELAGSE9-10W9: Draw evidence from literary or informational texts to support analysis, reflection, and research. a. Apply grades 9–10 Reading standards to literature (e.g., "Analyze how an author draws on and transforms source material in a specific work [e.g., how Shakespeare treats a theme or topic from Ovid or the Bible or how a later author draws on a play by Shakespeare]"). b. Apply grades 9–10 Reading standards to literary nonfiction (e.g., "Delineate and evaluate the argument and specific claims in a text, assessing whether the reasoning is valid and the evidence is relevant and sufficient; identify false statements and fallacious reasoning").

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Gain a deep understanding of the terms analysis and synthesis, and apply these parameters in responding intelligently to literature and informational text
- Understand the literary elements that should be examined in a literary analysis essay (such as diction, syntax, tone, mood, imagery, figurative language)
- Understand the informational and rhetorical elements that should be examined in an informational analysis essay (such as diction, syntax, structure, logical fallacies, pathos, logos, ethos, peer review)
- Distinguish theme(s) and trace development of theme through aggregation of facts, characters, events, etc.
- Maintain the practice of requiring evidence and support for any claim presented and of provide evidence and support for the asserted claim

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Maintain the practice of requiring text-based evidence and support for all claims, inferences, and assertions proposed in the classroom, whether formal or informal
- Share effective student models of analysis essays
- Review the concept of analysis and the elements to be considered (a checklist may even be provided to scaffold this skill initially, précis writing is also an effective organizational tool for analysis)
- Incorporate the study of popular literary criticism to scaffold the concept of text analysis

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Following the completion of a literary novel study (for example, To Kill a Mockingbird,), introduce the concept of literary criticism (literary criticism is the evaluation, analysis, description, or interpretation of literary works by both amateurs and professionals) with students, introducing several styles of literary criticism and providing a list of literary terms and rhetorical strategies for their reference. Students will choose a critical essay that they believe best captures the style and intent of the novel and will write an evaluation of the critical essay that 1) explains why the student finds it accurate or insightful and 2) researches and examines at least three claims made by the critic about specific facts or elements from the text.

Suggested Key Terms:

Genre	Analysis	Literary criticism	Informational	Rhetoric	Evaluation	Citation

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Writing (W)
	ELAGSE9-10W10: Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of tasks, purposes, and audiences.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Maintain a routine writing practice, both within the classroom and independently, experimenting with genre
- Read and study writers whose styles you enjoy and admire, emulating stylistic elements useful to you
- Acquire and maintain adequate keyboarding skills to write effectively within given time frames
- Practice maintaining focus on prolonged projects, writing or working a little each day on a larger project over time
- Maintain a portfolio of written work, not only for reflection but as a resource for ideas, work samples, college applications, etc.

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Provide frequent writing opportunities, both formal and routine, brief and extended
- Provide extensive and specific feedback on as much student writing as possible; avoid providing a grade without specific feedback via rubric, commentary, or both
- Require students to maintain a record of their writing throughout the year in the form of a portfolio or compendium
- Create opportunities throughout the year for retrospective review of writing to facilitate a recognition of progress and habits
- Vary the requirements for tasks to include typed and hand-written pieces, long and short pieces, research-driven and personal writing

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):
See sample tasks provided for ELAGSE9-10W1 through ELAGSE9-10W9 for suggestions on implementation of routine, research, and analysis writing in grade 9.

Suggested Key Terms:

Diction	Introduction	Syntax	Fluency	Conventions	Figurative language	Structure
Evidence	Style	Organization	Imagery	Detail	Voice

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Speaking and Listening (SL)
	ELAGSE9-10SL1: Initiate and participate effectively in a range of collaborative discussions(one-on-one, in groups, and teacher-led) with diverse partners on grades 9–10 topics, texts, and issues, building on others' ideas and expressing their own clearly and persuasively. a. Come to discussions prepared having read and researched material under study; explicitly draw on that preparation by referring to evidence from texts and other research on the topic or issue to stimulate a thoughtful, well-reasoned exchange of ideas. b. Work with peers to set rules for collegial discussions and decision-making (e.g., informal consensus, taking votes on key issues, presentation of alternate views), clear goals and deadlines, and individual roles, as needed. c. Propel conversations by posing and responding to questions that relate the current discussion to broader themes or larger ideas; actively incorporate others into the discussion; and clarify, verify, or challenge ideas and conclusions. d. Respond thoughtfully to diverse perspectives, summarize points of agreement and disagreement, and, when warranted, qualify or justify their own views and understanding and make new connections in light of the evidence and reasoning presented.

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Confidently interact with peers and adults
- Make eye contact, speak loudly enough to be heard, shake hands or make introductions in a mature manner
- Cultivate the ability to present information to a group or audience
- Be courteous and attentive, taking turns and setting goals as appropriate
- Cultivate a mature perspective on diverse cultures and points of view
- Provide evidence and support for positions, claims, and assertions made, whether formally or informally
- Treat conversation as a skill, preparing for discourse by learning about diverse perspectives and subjects and eliciting comments from others
- Thoughtfully incorporate what you learn from listening to and speaking with others to shape your own world views

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Provide opportunities for students to present material not only to peers but to a wider audience
- Invite diverse guest speakers to interact with the class
- Assign tasks that require individual work, but also those that require meaningful collaboration in pairs and larger teams, understanding that larger teams of students will require more and better strategic planning
- Model mature and confident interaction, soliciting and expecting appropriate responses from students

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Convene a mock academic conference modeled after those that colleges frequently host, where the topic of discussion will be the works of an author under consideration in your class. Review the agendas of literary or scientific conferences available online to determine the kinds of roundtable discussions you might schedule. Assign students topics of expertise, such as the author's use of symbolism in his works, or how his or her childhood impacted the themes of the novels, etc. Several if not all students may be scheduled to "present" a paper they have written to the group and conduct a discussion afterward. The "conference" may be scheduled to last more than one day and may include fun touches such as ordering a special lunch, reserving the auditorium, combining multiple classes, or inviting guests.

Suggested Key Terms:

Diverse	Evidence	Paraphrase	Evidence	Collegial	Explicit	Multimedia
Discussion	Implicit	Consensus	Accountable talk

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Speaking and Listening (SL)
	ELAGSE9-10SL2: Integrate multiple sources of information presented in diverse media or formats (e.g., visually, quantitatively, orally) evaluating the credibility and accuracy of each source.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Understand and practice the concept of synthesizing ideas to present a case or claim
- Understand the commonalities between ideas presented in diverse media and emphasizing those commonalities in support of the case or claim
- Evaluate all sources, especially websites, for credibility, understanding what the indicators of credibility are
- Evaluate sources for accuracy when appropriate (for example, a site may be credible, but may contain a typo making 1,000 into 10,000)

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Require multiple media and format in source materials (for example, a research project may require two interviews, three peer-reviewed journals, one resource text, and two digital sources, such as websites)
- Practice and model synthesis and integration with students; "Document-Based Questions" make good prompts for practicing the integration of sources (this can be investigated in team planning across the content areas)
- Routinely provide students with multiple resources for evaluation that are inaccurate or not credible so that students have experience identifying unreliable sources
- Consider providing (or constructing as a class) a resource evaluation checklist or template that might include tips such as checking for the domain of the site (.edu or .org for example), date of last update, or credentials of the webmaster

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Using a released CollegeBoard practice prompt for United States History, World History, or Language that is at a comprehension level appropriate for 9th grade, familiarize students with the concept of the synthesis essay. Generally a synthesis prompt will contain 4-6 resources of diverse genre/origin relating to a single topic, (for example, a map, a newspaper article, a diary entry, and an encyclopedic text relating to the bombing of Dresden) and will require students to integrate all or most of these resources in a cogent essay on the topic. After acquainting students with the composition of a synthesis essay packet, allow them to construct a synthesis essay packet for a text under consideration in your classroom. For example, if your students are reading Animal, Vegetable, Miracle by Barbara Kingsolver (a book about conserving resources by using locally grown foods), they might compile a synthesis packet and prompt containing a map of the US or world, a graph showing statistics regarding how far the average piece of fruit is transported to get to market, a list of vendors at the local farmers' market, etc. Students must annotate each source to explain its relation to the original text. Finally students will trade synthesis packets and write essays using the material provided using the same skills and conventions they would use in a "DBQ."

	Speaking and Listening (SL)
	ELAGSE9-10SL3: Evaluate and/or reflect on a speaker's point of view, reasoning, and use of evidence and rhetoric, identifying any fallacious reasoning or exaggerated or distorted evidence.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Distinguish supporting evidence from repetition or extraneous detail
- Distinguish valid reasoning from logical fallacy
- Understand what comprises sufficient evidence based on the nature of argument or claim
- Address speaker bias and counterclaims
- Understand and effectively analyze a speaker's use of rhetorical strategies (appeal to emotion or authority, for example), including fallacies (such as bandwagon)
- Consider the impact of visual rhetoric and the use of lighting, camera angles, make up, clothing, etc.

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Invite guest speakers to the classroom, watch political debates and news coverage, etc., to provide opportunities to identify rhetorical strategies in action
- Consider targeted instruction in types of logical fallacies
- Consider targeted instruction in inductive and deductive reasoning and syllogisms
- Require specific textual evidence for all claims and supporting evidence, including formal and informal writing and discussion, and train students to require evidence from any speaker who wishes to be considered accurate or credible
- Point out persuasive strategies in everyday discourse (for instance, when students argue against weekend homework)

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):
In advance, choose a TED Talk based on a topic or idea currently being studied in class. Prior to video presentation, have the class brainstorm about what elements would contribute to an effective speech (eye contact, appropriate volume, ease of the speaker, staying focused and on topic, using humor or other strategies to engage the audience, supporting claims with evidence, etc.). Have students rate the speaker and take notes on his or her main points during the talk. Provide a graphic organizer for students to fill in while listening to the talk. Provide a place for students to write personal questions about claims made within the speech. Students will write an analysis of the speaker's performance afterward, evaluating the speech and including specific references to the speech to support assertions. An extension of this activity could be for students to research unsupported claims or fallacies in the speech.

	Speaking and Listening (SL)
	ELAGSE9-10SL4: Present information, findings, and supporting evidence clearly, concisely, and logically, such that listeners can follow the line of reasoning and the organization, development, substance, and style are appropriate to purpose, audience, and task.

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Make eye contact and speak loudly enough to be heard
- Cultivate the ability to present information to a group or audience
- Distinguish between circumstances calling for formal language and those calling for less formal language
- Provide evidence and support for positions, claims, and assertions you make, whether formally or informally
- Distinguish supporting evidence from repetition or extraneous detail
- Distinguish valid reasoning from logical fallacy
- Understand what comprises sufficient evidence based on the nature of argument or claim
- Address audience bias and counter-claims
- Understand persuasive rhetorical strategies

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Provide opportunities for students to present material not only to peers but to a wider audience
- Model mature and confident interaction, soliciting and expecting appropriate responses from students
- Provide engaging, stimulating, and relevant text-based topics for presentations
- Require specific textual evidence for all claims and supporting evidence, including formal and informal writing and discussion
- Point out rhetorical strategies in everyday discourse (for instance, when students argue against weekend homework)

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

This slightly unusual task focuses students on presenting information in ways that are extremely focused as to audience and task. Have students in groups of prepare presentations based on a text currently under consideration, varying the audience and purpose for each as a way to examine the impact of audience and purpose on the presentation's diction, content, length, and other parameters. For example, for students reading Animal Farm by George Orwell, they may receive the following instructions: Group One will produce a puppet show enacting chapter one of Animal Farm that accurately captures the characterization of each major character through appearance, tone of voice, actions, etc., which would be appropriate for 6th graders; Group Two will present a PowerPoint providing visual examples of the imagery described by Orwell, with commentary on the impact of that imagery and his use of sensory details on the reader which would be appropriate for a college-level group of Orwell scholars; Group Three will create a Prezi that gives an overview of Orwell's life and political beliefs that explicate some of his rationale for writing Animal Farm which would be appropriate to an audience who had never heard of him or read his books; and so on.

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Speaking and Listening (SL)
	ELAGSE9-10SL5: Make strategic use of digital media (e.g., textual, graphical, audio, visual, and interactive elements) in presentations to enhance understanding of findings, reasoning, and evidence, as well as to add interest.

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Proactively maintain knowledge of and use the latest digital trends for gathering and sharing information
- Suggest new technologies for the classroom and encourage peers and instructors to explore new technologies
- Publish personal work routinely, both to fellow classmates and digitally to the general public, including posting or creating films, blogs, podcasts, Prezis, Wikis, websites, and other bases for information to be accessed
- Consider the word strategic in the standard to make a decision about when and how to use digital media for maximum impact

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Incorporate digital media into the classroom at every opportunity including maintaining a class website, blog, podcasts, wikis, or any other medium possible for the sharing of information and ideas both within the class cohort and beyond it
- Make the incorporation of digital media a required element in many assignments
- Proactively learn about new technologies; encourage purchasing and training in new technologies whenever possible
- Learn from students, the digital natives, about emerging technologies
- Share student work beyond the borders of the classroom whenever possible and appropriate

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Have students choose a poem from a variety under consideration by the class. Students will thoroughly explore this poem including the meanings of unknown words, its form and meter, sound devices, figurative language, imagery, relevant background on the poem's author, other contextual elements such as heritage or geography, etc. Students will complete the exploration part of the project by writing a literary analysis of the poem. Finally, the student will create a website (using Dreamweaver or any other simple platform) about the poem. All of the information gathered through the exploration (which should include pictures, maps, dictionary entries, written text, and any number of other pieces of relevant information) will be attached to the poem through hyperlinks attached to a relevant word in the poem or title. Poetryoutloud.org provides an extensive collection of student-appropriate poems.

	Speaking and Listening (SL)
	ELAGSE9-10SL6: Adapt speech to a variety of contexts and tasks, demonstrating command of formal English when indicated or appropriate. (See grades 9–10 Language standards 1 and 3 for specific expectations.)

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Acquire and periodically review the rules of standard English, avoiding mistakes in agreement, tense, and other common conventions of use
- Bring judgment and critical thought to the considered use of formal and informal English, carefully considering the appropriate discourse for a given occasion
- Routinely go to reference materials to refresh knowledge of particulars of use, such as which titles are underlined and which are in quotations, or when to capitalize father or east

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Explore creative ways to incorporate grammar and conventions into daily instruction
- Refer often to the ELAGSE's "Language Progressive Skills Chart" which delineates the course of instruction for common grammar and conventions principles
- Purposefully designate opportunities in which informal, colloquial, or dialectic speech may be acceptable (for example, in informal discussion or story-telling)

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Allow students to explore dialectic speech through story-telling. Students may research and find stories from various cultures or practice reading excerpts from novels that are written in dialect (such as "Thank you, M'am"). For this exploration, guest story-tellers may be invited to present to the class. Students should conclude the activity by writing a reflection providing specific examples of dialect from the text and analyzing the impact of its use on the reader and the story. Students should address why the author would make the choice to write or speak in dialect given its inherent difficulties.

Suggested Key Terms:

Colloquial   Dialect   Conventions   Discourse   Formal   Informal   Standard   Non-standard

Ninth Grade GSE
Language (L)
ELAGSE9-10L1: Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English grammar and usage when writing or speaking. a. Use parallel structure. b. Use various types of phrases (noun, verb, adjectival, adverbial, participial, prepositional, absolute) and clauses (independent, dependent; noun, relative, adverbial) to convey specific meanings and add variety and interest to writing or presentations.

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Periodically review and maintain familiarity with common and more sophisticated rules of use, grammar, and conventions in standard English such as the parts of speech, agreement, and antecedents, etc.
- Employ parallel structure in writing for effect, and recognize its use in texts
- Review and employ knowledge of construction of phrases and clauses and use them correctly and effectively to construct varied sentences

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Consult the ELAGSE's "Language Progressive Skills Chart" to plan continued instruction on key aspects of grammar and conventions through the higher grades
- Include explicit and implicit instruction on the language standards daily, always in connection to a text under consideration (never in isolation)
- At the 9th grade level, students may be able to experiment with using non-standard constructions to purposeful effect, but this should be undertaken advisedly (students must know and understand the rules they intend to bend)

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

For any major text under consideration by the class, a learning wall may be created where "cheers and jeers" may be posted. Here students can place new and interesting vocabulary, interesting sentences or quotes, exceptions to usage or "mistakes" (such as William Faulkner's run-on sentences or e.e. cummings' lack of capitalization). These entries may be studied holistically after several items have accrued to shed light on an author's voice and style. For those with the site permission to do so, chalkboard paint is available that will turn a wall into a blackboard simply by painting it. Windows are fun to write on with expo markers (which, of course, wipe right off).

Suggested Key Terms:

Adjectival phrase	Dependent clause	Grammar	Conventions	Participial phrase
Prepositional phrase	Noun clause	Relative clause	Noun phrase
Absolute phrase	Adverbial clause

	Ninth Grade GSE

	ELAGSE9-10L2: Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing. a. Use a semicolon (and perhaps a conjunctive adverb) to link two or more closely related independent clauses. b. Use a colon to introduce a list or quotation. c. Spell correctly. d. Produces legible work that shows accurate spelling and correct use of the conventions of punctuation and capitalization.

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Review and maintain familiarity with rules and patterns of spelling in standard English
- Routinely consult reference materials for clarification when in doubt about a spelling
- Do not allow abbreviations common to digital media to adversely impact spelling in your formal writing
- Understand the rules of colon and semi-colon usage and use them correctly
- In typing and when writing long hand, bring a mature, high-school level of consideration to the neatness and legibility of your work; illegible hand-writing can cost precious points in SAT, AP, college entrance essays, and job applications

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Consult the CCGPS' "Language Progressive Skills Chart" to plan continued instruction on key aspects of grammar and conventions through the higher grades
- Include explicit and implicit instruction on the language standards daily, always in connection to a text under consideration (never in isolation)
- Insist upon legibility in student work
- Provide a rubric on occasion for written work that focuses specifically on legibility, grammar, and conventions in order to provide students with pointed feedback in these areas

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Conduct a punctuation court. Wear a judge's black robe, and use a gavel. Provide students with passages that are punctuated incorrectly. Students must provide evidence to the court on why a punctuation error has occurred. The judge will rule whether the discussed sentence is guilty or not guilty of the error.

Suggested Key Terms:

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Language (L)
	ELAGSE9-10L3: Apply knowledge of language to understand how language functions in different contexts, to make effective choices for meaning or style, and to comprehend more fully when reading or listening, and to write and to edit so that it conforms to the guidelines in a style manual (e.g., MLA Handbook, APA Handbook, Turabian's Manual for Writers) appropriate for the discipline and writing type.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- At a high-school level of sophistication, understand that language usage is a powerful cultural tool and that perceptions can rightly or wrongly be attached to language choices
- Take care to distinguish appropriately between venues requiring varying levels of formality; do not use texting abbreviations or parlance in formal or even semi-formal academic settings
- By grade 9, be thoroughly familiar with what is meant by "manuscript style" and know the basic requirements of APA and MLA styles

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Require a formal manuscript style such as MLA or APA for at least a few papers each year
- Require students to construct stylistically accurate citations without the assistance of an electronic citation generator
- Use tact and perspective in considering colloquial and dialectic language, remembering that non-standard language is extremely prevalent in the digital age; this concept will require increasing attention as media become ever more prevalent in students' lives
- Provide opportunities for students to write for a purposefully diverse array of audiences and purposes to allow exploration of various choices for meaning and style

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Allow students to translate portions of a Shakespearean text under consideration in grade 9, such as Romeo and Juliet, in a variety of styles to facilitate a discussion of effective language choices. Text sections may be translated into "IM" (instant message) language, into standard modern English, into a regional dialect, non-standard (appropriate) slang, or even "Spanglish" or a foreign language. This activity can aid comprehension of the Elizabethan dialogue, but can also give important insight to students as to how the nature of the language changes the meaning and perception of the text. This activity should be accompanied by close, attentive reading of the original text, and responsible and text-based explanations of the choices made in translation, along with thoughtful analysis of the nuances of meaning introduced or removed through translation. Make sure to use a text that does not provide a summary or paraphrase of the passage under consideration.

Suggested Key Terms:

	Ninth Grade GSE
	Language (L)
	ELAGSE9-10L4: Determine or clarify the meaning of unknown and multiple-meaning words and phrases based on grades 9–10 reading and content, choosing flexibly from a range of strategies. a. Use context (i.e., the overall meaning of a sentence, paragraph, or text; a word's position or function in a sentence) as a clue to the meaning of a word or phrase. b. Identify and correctly use patterns of word changes that indicate different meanings or parts of speech (e.g., analyze, analysis, analytical; advocate, advocacy). c. Consult general and specialized reference materials (e.g., dictionaries, glossaries, thesauruses), both print and digital, to find the pronunciation of a word or determine or clarify its precise meaning, its part of speech, or its etymology. d. Verify the preliminary determination of the meaning of a word or phrase (e.g., by checking the inferred meaning in context or in a dictionary).

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Make effective use of reference materials, including digital references
- Avoid becoming overly dependent on electronic devices in determining correct spellings or grammatical constructions; these tools will not always be at hand in testing, interviewing, or speaking situations
- Always use your own resources (text, context, roots, word patterns) to determine meaning, or at least make an educated guess, before consulting reference materials in order to keep these skills sharp
- Proactively and independently continue to build personal vocabulary; an extensive vocabulary is one of the best indicators of a high score on SAT and ACT exams, as well as one of the best indicators of success in professional and academic discourse

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Encourage students to use their own resources (see above) to at least make an attempt at guessing the meaning of a new word before accessing reference materials
- Routinely list and explore new words introduced through class texts
- Point out roots and patterns in unfamiliar words
- Have a variety of reference materials on hand other than digital resources so that students gain a working knowledge of the use of dictionaries, glossaries, thesauruses, and appendices
- Review the construction of dictionary entries to ensure that students understand each part

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Have students keep a log book of all unfamiliar words encountered, both within texts and in academic and technical contexts (for example, literary and rhetorical terms). Terms gleaned from texts should be logged with text reference of text, author, title, and page. Encourage students to maintain this book beyond the school year, logging words they particularly like or are intrigued by. Incentives for well-kept logs could include their allowance as reference when testing or writing, or during a spelling bee.

Suggested Key Terms:

Ninth Grade GSE
Language (L)
ELAGSE9-10L5: Demonstrate understanding of figurative language, word relationships, and nuances in word meanings. a. Interpret figures of speech (e.g., euphemism, oxymoron) in context and analyze their role in the text. b. Analyze nuances in the meaning of words with similar denotations.

Skills/Concepts for Students:

- Identify and analyze various types of figurative and connotative language (such as metaphor, simile, personification, hyperbole, euphemism, oxymoron)
- Understand the impact of writer's craft when using literary elements such as imagery and figurative language
- Identify and analyze various sound devices (such as alliteration, assonance, consonance, onomatopoeia)
- Bring a high-school level of sophistication to the consideration of nuances of meaning in words (e.g., close versus slam, or strut versus walk)

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:

- Guide students in identifying various types of figurative language; provide contextual examples
- Choose texts rich in figurative and connotative language
- Require students to translate figurative expressions into concrete language and vice versa
- Practice exploring connotations of common vocabulary as well as newer vocabulary

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):

Students will study a visual text that is connected to texts under consideration (for example, "Bronzeville at Night" by Archibald Motley, within the context of a study of works of the Harlem Renaissance). This is an opportunity for small group and whole class discussion on the aesthetics of certain kinds of visual texts and the relationship of those aesthetics to literary elements (such as tone, imagery, mood, author's purpose). Independently, students will compile a list of adjectives describing the painting. From this list of adjectives, students will create phrases of figurative language (for example, "mysterious" may become "as mysterious as an unopened book"). Finally, students will make a list of ten examples of figurative language from texts under consideration in class. Using art books and digital resources, students will choose a visual representation for each example of figurative language, writing a brief annotation for each choice explaining how the visual resonates aesthetically with the text and the phrase.

Suggested Key Terms:

Figurative	Simile	Juxtaposition	Literal	Personification	Onomatopoeia	Connotation
Hyperbole	Euphemism	Denotation	Idiom	Oxymoron	Metaphor	Alliteration

	ELAGSE9-10L6: Acquire and use accurately general academic and domain-specific words and phrases, sufficient for reading, writing, speaking, and listening at the college and career readiness level; demonstrate independence in gathering vocabulary knowledge when considering a word or phrase important to comprehension or expression.

Skills/Concepts for Students:
- Be independent and proactive in the acquisition of new and ever more sophisticated vocabulary
- Acquire or review foundational knowledge of roots, pre-fixes, suffixes, and other structural tools for decoding new vocabulary
- Understand and apply knowledge of the concepts of literal and figurative meaning
- Differentiate between situations that require formal diction and those that do not
- Examine author's purpose in word choice and be aware of your own purpose when choosing language
- Analyze the cumulative effect of diction on a text

Instructional Strategies for Teachers:
- Provide examples of language that illustrate both extreme formality and casual colloquialism, discussing contextual appropriateness and occasions for use of each
- Build vocabulary using a variety of strategies (resource materials, context, roots); you may require students to keep flash cards or databases of acquired vocabulary, especially technical and academic vocabulary
- Use both figurative/connotative language and literal/concrete language in lecture and discussion

Sample Performance-based/Standards-based Task(s):
Instruct students to pull eight relatively difficult words from the studied text. List the words on the board as students suggest them. Ask for students to randomly call out numbers one through eight. As students provide each number, write it beside the listed word. When finished, each word should have a different number (1-8). Instruct students to write an eight-line poem using the eight words. If the first suggested word happens to be ubiquitous and the number 4 is beside it, then ubiquitous must be the fourth word in the first line of the poem. If the second listed word is antiquated and the number 8 is beside it, then antiquated is the eighth word in the second line of the poem. The poems must be cohesive and must make sense. The original eight words must be used purposefully.

Suggested Key Terms:

Figurative	Academic	Tone	Connotative	Comprehension	Impact
Domain-specific	Cumulative	Technical jargon	Vocabulary	Concrete	Author's purpose
Diction	Literal

Revisions to GSE

A comparison of the previous standards and the revised GSE

Overview

The following pages contain a comparison of items from the previous standards and the revised Georgia Standards of Excellence (GSE). This section is not meant to serve as the definitive guide to each of the GSE standards; that is provided in the previous section, entitled "Guidance," along with skills, concepts, tasks, and strategies. In this section, you will find a side-by-side alignment that will highlight changes in focus or vocabulary and will alert you to standards that have been subsumed, changed, moved, or otherwise altered.
